Nominees For President Present Platforms, State Objectives

Candidates for student body offices are juniors Ron Nelson, Linda Stull, Merdys Anderson, Bill Hamm, Roger Prehn, Harry Blobaum and Norman Augst. Hamm and Prehn, presidential candidates, will debate in Tuesday's convocation.

First round of fire in the campaign for Student Body President was heard Thursday evening as the nominees presented their platforms and stated their objectives in the race for that office.

Roger Prehn and Bill Hamm, the nominees, presented their propositions for "a greater Wartburg." Prehn stressed the importance of a progressive, mature government with the accent on service.

He said that Wartburg should put its liberal arts knowledge to work for others.

Barrier Should Be Lifted

Hamm called for the students and faculty to come together to form one community. He said the barrier between students and faculty members should be knocked down.

His second point called for extermination of the "super conformer" in order that students can seek new approaches to old programs and institute new programs in place of worn-out ones.

Both candidates stressed the fact that the president must meet the needs of the student body. Prehn called it "harmony" while Hamm called for "communication and involvement" on the part of the president.

Nelson Unopposed

In other contests, Ronald Nelson is unopposed for the vice president's seat, Linda Stull and Merdys Anderson are running for the secretary's post while Harry Blobaum and Norman Augst are vying for the treasurer's seat.

All candidates must be of junior standing with at least a 2.5 grade average. They must also have been a student at Wartburg for at least a semester prior to the election.

This year's slate of seven candidates is three less than last year, when a primary election had to be held to determine winners eligible for the final election.

Heading the list of candidates are Roger Prehn and Bill Hamm.

Prehn Is Senator

A philosophy major from Verona, Wis., Prehn held the office of freshman class treasurer. He is currently representing the junior class in the capacity of senator and is spring Pops Concert Chairman.

In addition, Prehn is a member of the Student Welfare Committee, Student Welfare Faculty Committee and is vice president of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary debate fraternity.

Hamm is a history major from Clarion. He is presently serving as junior class president, chairman of Academic Life Committee and temporary chairman of the swimming pool project. He is also student representative on the Educational Policies Committee.

Hamm Was Soph. President

A member of Young Democrats, Hamm has served as sophomore class president, Snow Weekend Chairman and was one of the delegates to the TALC Conference in Tacoma, Wash.

Active in campus organizations is Ronald Nelson, vice presidential candidate. He is currently junior class vice president, chairman of the Honors Subcommittee and vice president of Alpha Chi, national honor society.

In addition, he is on the Religious Activities Committee and is

Changes To Become Effective Next Year After Consideration Of Cafeteria Situation

A food service director and a chef will be employed to help staff the cafeteria service next year, according to Pres. John W. Bachman. The additions will be made, in part, to facilitate a request made by Cafeteria Manager Mrs. Loreen Grube that her load be lightened.

Mrs. Grube has agreed to remain in a responsible capacity yet to be determined. Meanwhile, the administration is considering applications for the newly created positions.

Food service changes were made with the advice of Roy Ruehle, a cafeteria consultant from Toledo, Ohio, who was here earlier in the year. He met with students, administrators and cafeteria staff members and presented several recommendations.

Some Changes In Effect

"Some of these changes have already been put into effect. Some don't fit and won't work here. Others can't be put into effect until next year because changes will have to be made in physical facilities and equipment," said Bachman.

Changes in the administration of the cafeteria are not certain since the details cannot be worked out until people are hired for the new jobs.

"Growth to 1200 students has brought with it problems of complexity that we haven't fully provided for," said Bachman.

Staff Is Reliable

"All have agreed that the present cafeteria staff is unusually reliable, hardworking and loyal. But to meet the needs of this size student body, it's clear that we need added professional assistance."

"We're under no illusions that we can satisfy everyone with the changes," he continued, "but we're hoping to improve the situation."

Political Science Department Adds New Instructor

Political Science Department will be expanded next year with the addition of a new faculty member and more course offerings, according to Dean of Faculty, John O. Chellevold.

James R. Sperstad, who is now working on his doctorate degree at University of Wisconsin, Madison, will come to Wartburg as instructor of Political Science.

His previous teaching experience includes a year as instructor at Hawthorne College, Antrim, N.H., and a teaching assistantship at UCLA, where he received his master's degree.

Sperstad holds a B.S. degree in political science and history from Wisconsin State College, Eau Claire.

Debaters Travel To National Tourney

BY KATIE MAAHS

Four members of the debate squad are en route to the National Pi Kappa Delta Tournament at Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma, Wash., which will be held April 12-16.

Juniors Walt Buenning of Parkston, S.D., and Lois Reyelts of Rock Rapids; sophomores Connie Meyer of Wausau, Wis., and Susan Stueber of Clyman, Wis., will be accompanied by Forensics Director Donald Douglas.

A unanimous vote of all the voting judges of the Upper Mississippi District, in which Wartburg College is located, selected the squad to attend the tournament.

District Includes 8 States

District includes Kansas, Nebraska, South and North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois.

Approximately five percent of the teams in this district will go to the national tournament. Only a specific number of schools are allowed to attend according to their past records.

Twelve recognized meets with other accredited colleges and universities must have been attended by the students.

Excellent Rating Necessary

They must also have received a rating of excellent in at least 70 percent of those meets, and they must maintain a high scholastic standing.

Wartburg College will debate teams from all sections of the United States. About seventy teams will represent top colleges and universities in the United States.

National Forensics Association has divided the United States into districts which can send a certain number of teams.

District Challenging

Wartburg College is located in one of the most challenging districts, for it must debate schools such as Macalester and Wisconsin State University of Eau Claire which are "perennially tough schools," according to Douglas.

Last year Wartburg received an invitation to be voted upon by the district judges, but because the team was in its first year of experience and its members were relatively young, it was not accepted.

"Resolved: that Federal Government should establish a national program of public work for the unemployed" is the question that will be debated by all the participating schools.

Question Used All Year

This same question has been used throughout the nation for the past year.

"Winner of the national tournament earns the right to participate in international debates with European colleges or universities.

"In addition, there usually are a considerable number of scholarship offers available for the winners to pursue graduate work in the area or areas of their choice," said Douglas.

Winners Take Tour

National winners get a four-month tour of various foreign universities, usually schools in the British Commonwealth, although other countries have been represented.

Winning team will represent the United States in these debates with foreign countries and will be sponsored by the State Department in accordance with its cultural exchange program.

National finals in debate are quite often broadcast nationally on a television network.

It is an honor for the Wartburg College debate squad to be chosen to participate in this national tournament after having been in existence for only two years.

Much credit should be given to the team and to Douglas for all the work they have done in preparation for this Tournament.

Elections Invade Campus

It's election time at Wartburg again. Yessir, and I'm one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the whole thing. I'm hoping that my candidate wins the election. I think he's a great guy and, boy, I'm going to do everything I can to see that he gets elected.

The other day I worked on posters all afternoon. One of my ex-friends, who's supporting the other candidate, worked on some, too. He put one of them on the wall down the hall from me. Well, being a loyal fan of my candidate, I knew that this poster wasn't going to do a thing for his side.

So, as soon as my former buddy left, I took the poster down. He was kinda mad when he came back and saw that it was taken down, but those are the breaks.

No Support Given

At first I wasn't going to support anyone. I figured it was safer to remain neutral. But then I got to thinking about it, and I decided my friends didn't really mean that much to me, anyway, and I was going to stand up for what I believed in.

Well, it's a good thing I had that attitude, because that's exactly what happened. Just because I'm supporting someone else, we rarely even speak to each other. Maybe it'll be better after the election. But it seems kinda dumb for us to be enemies just because we happen to think one candidate is better qualified.

The worst part about the whole deal is the campaign buttons. I'm wearing mine to show my support. And so are lots of other people. So now we walk around and stare at each other's buttons, and if they're different we sort of growl and walk on.

Who Will Win?

Yessir, this campaign is quite a thing. I wonder who'll win? And I wonder if it will do any good. After we're through losing friends and making posters and cheering and applauding, I wonder if it will really matter?

We'll let student government go its merry way until next year. And then we'll decide to throw out the idea of a dorm raid and devote our time to another rip roarin' campaign.

We'll make posters 'til we're blue in the face. And then, after our guy is elected, we'll go back to our friendships and let him try to get the job done that he said he'd do--by himself.

Anyone who doubted whether there could be a flood without a rain should have no more doubts after the past week.

Dry Run activity will soon be starting, provided that it ever does become a DRY run.

If the river keeps rising, the guys from Vollmer House may have to paddle to classes.

Now that the weather has finally caught up with the calendar, one can see that the young man's thoughts have turned to thoughts of love: love of baseball, love of leisure time, love of not studying.

Maybe the administration could catch onto the gravy train and start packing convocations for the rest of the year. All it'd have to do is call them "Convocations A-Go-Go."

. . .Or as the condemned man said before the Iowa legislature repealed the death penalty: "No noose is good news!"

Wartburg Knights have a "Castle" and a "Fortress." With the help of Mother Nature we shall soon have a moat.

In spring an "Oppie Card" may be the invitation to try out for baseball.

WJC should be renamed Wardenry of Jailing Coeds.

Security is not having to study for a mid-semester test because you know it all. Insecurity is not having to study because it's too late to learn anyway.

Chairman Thanks Drive Workers

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many students who worked at trying to make the Campus Chest Drive a success.

Particular thanks go to Dean Baer, Al Goldammer, Larry Pleggenkuhle, Alice Heil and Cleo Eliason who were members of the Central Committee and did a lot of work. Many thanks also to the speakers and solicitors who helped with the campaign.

Sincerely,
Robert D. Braun
Campus Chest Chairman

Grassman Hole Is 'Home'

By DICK McCABE

The dorm, Grassman Hole--the name has been changed to protect the housemother. This Mesolithic firetrap is the only dorm on campus where admission has nothing to do with I. Q., and floor residency is based on previous military duty, such as Cub Scouts.

Being in the Grassman Hole in - crowd involves subjecting oneself to the inevitability of degenerative reincarnation.

If one can live through the 2 a. m. supercommunal atmosphere and the early morning shaving schrapnel for the duration of one semester, he receives a two-year commission from the U. S. Army as a street fighter in Selma.

As one first enters the decadent cloister which is to be his room, he becomes aesthetically overwhelmed by the presence of impromptu caulking and water pipe mobiles, illuminated by 20-watt bulbs.

Each room was designed not so much for comfort, as to withstand the next glacial onslaught.

Dorm construction is unique. I know some termites who condemned the place, and a demolition crew who got a feeling of satisfaction by leaving it alone.

The architect died of claustrophobia while designing the dorm, but was awarded the Misanthrope merit badge post-mortem. Later the dorm was built in two weeks by boondogglers.

Life in Grassman Hole revolves around Thursday night study of Boonesboro, and a vigilant worship of the god Dionysus.

Excitement varies in degree from floor to floor, but it usually involves a form of Sumo wrestling over the insinuation of theft of someone's coveted raisin-bread, and mass warfare on anyone collecting for the Campus Chest.

A non-accepted foreigner on any floor is liable to find himself suffering the consequences of whatever is worse than a Crispy Critters stampede.

This individual is safe only if he has the foresight to bring a machete, three flares, the latest premium receipt from Lutheran Mutual, a body guard in the person of Pastor Diers or enough egg-cheeses to go around twice.

Guys who live in this dorm formulate groups of uninhibited cliques that have the tendency to disregard the restriction of their social probation.

Each individual is accomplished in the arts of instigating fruit-of-the-loom attacks on Wartburg Hall, denying Officer Shinn's authority and subliminating.

They can also feign mono and lie about which room the party is in Friday night--none of which enables him to be ignored by the Dean of Students, J. Edgar Oppermann.

Hub of the Grassman Hole gregarity centers around the seldomly-clean, less seldomly-open lounge.

Here one can invigorate himself through such activities as: realizing no-trump wasn't such a good bid and making silly-putty out of the spinal column while being mesmerized during the four o'clock movie.

Invigoration in the lounge also comes from using non-Christian adjectives, patronizing the Coca-Cola Bottling Company and promoting the need for cancer research.

Being a Grassman Hole pagan, I can honestly say my memories of this dorm can only vanish through death or plastic surgery.

And I am proud to have been a member of the one dorm on campus that was voted least likely to be sandbagged in case of flood, and most likely to be camouflaged during high school visitation. Ten-four.

Socrates Would Stimulate Thinking

By REBECCA LEESMAN

I wonder how full the auditorium would be today if Socrates were going to be the speaker? I think it would be fairly full, as the student body would be eager to hear from such a great and wise man.

But some would cut saying that they had had enough of Socrates for the past few weeks (freshmen).

He would be quite different from the speakers we generally have. From his world they could be called Sophists, for surely they are persons of supposed wisdom, paid to impart their knowledge to us.

Lecture Would Be Brief

If he presented any sort of a formal lecture to us, I am sure it would be brief. He would set most of the time aside as a question and answer period and would proceed to ask nearly all of the questions himself.

We would come away provoked and disturbed, if not by his questions, by the fact that we had not gotten our regular convo nap.

I do not think Socrates would approve of convos being required. Rather I think that he would expect us, as seekers of true knowledge, to come eagerly to each one, to question the speaker and examine and weigh the facts that he gives.

Convo Is Opportunity

Convocations are a bi-weekly opportunity for us to hear from men of the world, distinguished in their fields who hold some of the truth and knowledge of life.

It would be like Socrates to discuss this very issue on required convos if he could speak with us. During his discussion, we would be led to examine our lives, values and goals.

Man's task in life would be discussed along with the educational system of the college. He would suggest that perhaps we could be learning more outside of the college, implying that here our lives are somewhat sheltered.

Yet on the other hand, he would also say that the college offers unique opportunities to learn.

He would not help settle the issue of required convos at all, but would only make the issue greater, with people either more strongly for it or more strongly against it.

But even so, I think the value of convos would be realized and as a result they would be better attended and more appreciated.

KWAR-FM Station Manager Answers Faculty Criticism Of Announcers' Speech

To the Editor:

Recently I was made aware of the fact that a member of the Wartburg faculty was using KWAR-FM as a negative example in a discussion on proper speech.

I am not degrading this faculty member, for I wasn't present to personally witness the discussion and don't know exactly what occurred.

However, it seems to me that any such discussion without proper qualifying remarks is uncalled for.

Similar Situation Cited

A discussion which would assume that the Trumpet is an example of poor journalism because the printer can make mistakes while preparing the paper for publication would create a similar situation.

It would seem more correct for the faculty member to have directed scorn at the English departments of schools which send students to Wartburg, for it is there that the blame lies and not with KWAR.

An operation which is manned and run by full time students cannot take the initiative in teaching its staff English usage which should have been taught in high school.

Problem Recognized

We have been aware of this problem for as long as the station has been on the air, but we, as students, can do little about it when we get little or no cooperation from others who would be involved in correcting it (i. e. the Wartburg faculty).

With the exception of three other members of the Student Executive Staff and myself, students work as much as ten hours a week, return a week early in the summer, stay later in spring, return early during vacations and do 101 other things without pay of any kind.

I would think that these students should have praise directed their way instead of slander.

Committees Arouse Interest

During the three and one-half years I have spent working at KWAR, I have had the opportunity to be on several committees which attempted to arouse interest and support for the station.

The student body has reacted in a way which we greatly appreciate, one year giving us the money from the student body project to buy more FM radios, and always providing us with enough manpower to staff the station seventeen hours a day, seven days a week.

Administration members have usually managed to be most helpful as well, responding in a favorable way to our pleas for a more adequate budget, for instance.

Faculty Is Another Story

The faculty, however, has been another story. Those who have constructively aided KWAR are not a majority. In fact, they do not even comprise a healthy minority.

While I am the first to admit that we have not contacted the entire faculty, I will say that most of those who have been contacted for help in producing airable programs or providing an adequate training program have been emphatic in their denials.

Some may accuse me of being too hot-headed, but when something like this occurs, I cannot help it. Too many students work too hard and too long at KWAR to have their only thanks come in the form of general ridicule.

Segment Should Be Careful

It certainly seems to me that a representative of the segment of the Wartburg population which has been least willing to do anything constructive should be just a little more careful before they begin to make comments on how things out to be.

Sincerely yours,
Gary Baumann
Station Manager

Spring Musical 'Oklahoma' Will Be Given May 5, 7, 8

Rodgers and Hammerstein's 'Oklahoma' will be presented here May 5, 7 and 8, under the direction of John N. Gill, director of the Wartburg Theatre.

Students playing main character roles in the musical are John Bitner, freshman, as Curly; Bev Hoveland, freshman, as Laurie; Ruth Pirsig, sophomore, as Aunt Eller, and Karen Goodno, junior, as Ado Annie.

Others are Allen Lyndrup, sophomore, as Will; Jim Gronewold, senior, as Jud; Dave Hutson, senior, as Alli Hakin, and Dave Suby, freshman, as Carnes.

Castle Singers, directed by James E. Fritschel, will sing background music.

Dancing routines are also planned for the production.

4 Plays Will Be Given At Chapel In Conjunction With Holy Week

Chapel Monday and Tuesday will feature Holy Week plays done by members of the acting and play direction classes.

The plays are from a series "Eyes on the Cross," written by Donald Mueller, and will be presented as four different episodes from the Crucifixion. Two plays will be presented each night.

First episode concerns Sarah and Leah at the Crucifixion and their meeting with the Apostle Peter. The second episode portrays a Centurion and a young Jewish boy who is selling wine at the Crucifixion.

Third episode presents the well-known story of Nicodemus and Joseph, and the fourth episode is about the merchant Jacob and Mary Magdalene.

Members of the play casts are seniors Gaylord Odegaard, Dan Moeller, Bob Bone and Darlene Wesenberg; juniors Ann Wesender and Kathy Bishop; and sophomores Walter Siegmann, James Ludwig and Jack Eden.

Senior Shirley Zellmer and juniors Linda Stull, Sue Sutliff and Sue Kell are directing the plays.

In addition to the chapel services the plays will be presented at the Methodist Church at Jesup on Wednesday evening.

Cedar Valley Art Exhibition On Display In Student Union

Second annual art exhibit of the Cedar Valley Art Association and a traveling college exhibition from the Old Bergen Art Guild of Bayonne, N.J., are presently on display in the Student Union and Fine Arts Center.

Cedar Valley art exhibit features work of artists primarily from the Bremer-Butler County area. Sculpture, ceramics and painting, with a heavy emphasis on oils, highlight the showing. This exhibit will be in the Student Union throughout the remainder of April.

Old Bergen Art Guild exhibition is on display in the Fine Arts Center and will remain through April 20. It is made up of pictures by 20 different artists in the new medium, polymer.

"This new plastic pigment is rapidly displacing oil as a medium because of the richness of its color and its three dimensional possibilities," said Miss Helen Wright, Art Department.

This display will be the first of several monthly exhibits from Old Bergen.

2 Students Attend Photo Conference

Sophomore Gary Olson and freshman Gary Williams attended a photographers' convention in the Union of the State University of Iowa campus at Iowa City March 26-28.

The convention, entitled "Refocus," featured creative ideas to be developed in still photography and cinematography on college campuses throughout the country.

Olson attended the convention on behalf of the Trumpet, while Williams represented the Fortress.

Knights To Play At Penn Today, Or Maybe Here Or Not At All

By BILL GLITZ

Circumstances surrounding Wartburg's opening conference baseball game today with William Penn have more complications than an Alfred Hitchcock thriller.

Game is scheduled for this afternoon at Oskaloosa, but Coach Earnest Oppermann must turn into a trail blazer extraordinaire to even lead his athletes to the site of the contest.

Recently flooding has closed off highways into the Oskaloosa area, and Oppie confessed that he just didn't know how to get there.

Go Around Flooding

"We'll just have to find a way around all the flooding," he said in his office on Friday afternoon.

This isn't the whole story either. If it should rain today at Oskaloosa, Penn would pack up its bats, balls, gloves and helmets and head for Waverly in hopes of getting the game in here.

No definite word was given on what would happen if the Knights arrived in Oskaloosa and then rain would start to fall, but don't be too surprised if the two teams spend more time on the bus than on the fall field today.

Three Called Off

Wartburg has already had three doubleheaders called off because of rain. One did get started, but Oppermann could not make any evaluations on his team from the two and one half innings that were played at Coe last Saturday.

"We played under horrible conditions and didn't accomplish much," Oppermann confessed. "I was certainly pleased with the team's eagerness to play -- especially their eagerness to hit."

Evidence of this eagerness was Gary Ludvigsen's double on the first pitch of the game. It was the first ball that had been served up to a Knight in any way, shape or form this spring.

Two Can't Be Made Up

A doubleheader scheduled against Loras at Dubuque was called off on Tuesday, and the make-up doubleheader of that rainout had to be postponed on Thursday. These two doubleheaders (Coe and Loras) have now been lost for the year and will not be made up.

Oppermann said that the team has now been outdoors to practice, but they took just hitting practice with no infield workout.

If the Knights get today's game in, William Penn will prove to be a stern test indeed.

Should Be Fine Team

"They should be a really fine team this year. They have an excellent nucleus back," was Oppermann's summation of Penn.

The term "excellent nucleus" is no overstatement. The Statesmen return an all-letterman infield, an all-letterman outfield and, according to press releases, three capable catchers.

Couple these plusses with all-conference pitcher Jim Van Scoyoc, who will undoubtedly hurl one of the games against the Knights, and Penn looks like one of the better bets to make a run for the conference crown.

Victory Will Open Eyes

A victory over Penn would probably open up the eyes of many observers as far as Wartburg baseball goes, and could be the indication of a surprisingly fine year to come.

But victory probably will not come easily, especially against Van Scoyoc.

Last year Wartburg defeated Penn twice, 7-6 and 3-0, but Penn is supposed to be stronger, and the Knights a little off in talent from last year's representative in the college World Series.

Terry Fairchild is Oppermann's choice to open the day's activities, if the day holds any activity in store for the Knights. From that point on, pitching plans are incomplete.

Line-up Given

The rest of the probable starting line-up and batting order for the first game of the doubleheader as released by Oppermann includes:

Gary Ludvigsen--catcher
Roger Kittleson--shortstop
Arlyn Krueger--first base
John Mantey--centerfield
Lowell Grunwald--third base
Arlyn Ristau--rightfield
Jim Renning--leftfield
Denny Saltzman or Dick Basham--second base
Terry Fairchild--pitcher

Golf Postponed

Today's golf match with Upper Iowa at West Union has been postponed until a later date because of poor weather conditions.

Linksters have been unable to get on the local course as yet, and all indications are that it may be awhile before the Country Club is opened.

Schedule calls for the next match to be held April 21 with University of Dubuque at the local course.

Medlar Takes Crown In Table Tennis Match

Sophomore Rich Medlar took the Wartburg table tennis crown in a close match with junior Dick Herrmann. In the first game of the match Medlar edged out Herrmann by two points.

Herrmann came back in the second sequence to build up an early lead and then coasted to victory while Medlar made a vain attempt to catch up. Deciding game went to a 20-20 tie, and after the exchange of a few points Rich Medlar emerged the new champion.

Final round of the pool tournament is yet to be decided. The only thing that is certain at this point is that one of the contestants will be junior Dave Walters.

Becker's Blunders

Rain Halts Baseball Games

By MIKE BECKER

The baseball season has officially been launched. Our first encounter with the enemy brought us a 2-1 victory. I might add that we only played two and a half innings against the Kohawks from Coe College, but we were ahead when the incessant pounding of the rains finally broke the nerves of the umpires.

Twirling for the vaunted Knights' pitching staff was Doyle Burn, who demonstrated that we may have several pitchable hurlers after all. Doyle gave up only one run in those two and a half innings which is considerably better than expected.

Becker

He forced the batters to hit the ball into the dirt in several vital situations, and only after the ball stuck in the mud on a hot grounder to third did the umpire call off the scrimmage for the day.

--0--

Wielding the big sticks in the Knights' slugfest were Lowell Grunwald, Gary Ludvigsen and Arlyn Krueger. Right fielder Arlyn Ristau had one of the longest drives of the day, only to be foiled by an alert outfielder who caught it. This wasn't too bad considering it was a combination of our first game and our first real batting practice.

Starting for the Knights were Arlyn Krueger--first base, Dennis Salzmann--second base, Doyle Burn--pitcher, Arlyn Ristau--right field, John Mantey--center field and Jim Renning--left field

Saturday we have a doubleheader with William Penn, which finished dead last in the conference race in 1964 without winning a game. If our conference games are rained out, we could be in big trouble.

Several teams over the years have won or lost championships because of the conference policy of not rescheduling rained-out games, which often leaves the team with a better record in second place because it has not played the minimum number of games.

RANTINGS AND RAVINGS. . .In looking through the Spring Sports Book published by the Public Relations Office, I came across several interesting facts which I will now share with you. . .For instance, did you know that we have both concrete and clay tennis courts? I know the gravel gets a little muddy on the asphalt courts at times, but I would hardly call them clay courts.

We have held at least one conference championship every year since 1958, which is a string to be pretty proud of. . .The golfers are going to have to help us keep this string intact through 1965 and I think they can do it. . .Of the six coaches who coach spring sports, three of them are Wartburg grads--Oppermann, Kurtt and Jaspers.

Luther, Buena Vista and Dubuque are picked to be the top baseball contenders this year. . .Buena Vista has won the baseball crown eight times since 1947, while Wartburg has won it three times, in a row. . .Al Exner, last year's all-conference catcher had an E. R. A. of 27.00 to top last year's staff.

Luther is picked to win the track crown again. . .Newcomers to watch include freshmen Rick Hauck in the 440, Jon Thieman in the 880 and Kurt Weiland in the pole vault. . .Harold Shudlick is our only trackster to hold a conference record, with a time of 14.9 in the 120 high hurdles. . .Wartburg has never won a conference track or tennis championship.

Tennis could be a long season this year with inexperience bogging the netmen down. Of course, those clay courts will help. . .We were third in the conference last year in the racket game. . .Enough for now; until Sadie Hawkins time next year, Goodbye.

Meet At Mt. Vernon Depends On Weather

Wartburg College's track team will compete in the Cornell Relays at Mt. Vernon today, weather permitting.

There was doubt on Thursday as to whether the relays would be held because of wet track conditions, but yesterday's warm conditions helped to alleviate the conditions.

This will be the Knights' first outdoor meet.

High-Jumper Niemann Is March 'Athlete Of Month'

Joel Niemann has literally jumped into the "Athlete of the Month" position for March.

Niemann, who specializes in the high jump, but has also been garnering points as a hurdler for Coach Dave Olson, was selected for his consistently fine performances during the indoor track season.

Niemann said he feels that his participation in another event helps his high jumping.

Other Events Help

"It certainly doesn't hurt," Niemann said. "If anything, it helps you to get loosened up.

During the indoor track meets, Niemann failed to jump six feet only once.

Although much was expected from Niemann during this season, his indoor season was much better than anyone expected.

He is usually a slow starter, and it usually takes him the indoor season to get untracked before rounding into the consistent jumping form which he displays outdoors.

Cut 20 Pounds

In trying to put his finger upon the reason for his fine indoor performances, the only thing Niemann could hit upon was the fact that he has cut 20 pounds off his weight from last year.

"The twenty pounds might have made a difference, but it's really hard to find a definite reason for my early success this year," Niemann said. "There are so many factors involved in high jumping, and believe me, a lot of it is just in the head."

Niemann feels that the outlook is bright for the outdoor track season, but he said that there would be no telling how far the Knights could have gone if some of the outstanding freshmen had remained eligible.

"It's hard to tell how we'll do as a team, but, as a whole we have some outstanding individuals on this squad."

And one of those outstanding individuals is Joel Niemann.

Over The Net

With a triumphant look, sophomore Ken Barr, member of the tennis team, returns the ball to his opponent in a practice match.

Weather Hampers Tennis, First Meet At SCI Tuesday

Wet and continued cold weather has hampered Coach Fred Jaspers' tennis squad this spring. In fact, the Knights' first workout on the courts was yesterday.

Jaspers has only three veterans back from last year's 3-4 squad which finished third in the Iowa Conference Meet. They are: seniors Doug Langholz and John Thalacker and junior Jack Wendt.

Without Jerry Shinkay, leading scorer on last year's team, the racketmen will be hard pressed to come up with as good a year as in 1964.

Jaspers stated, "I'll be able to see better what we have once we get outside and get some practice in. All we need is a little cooperation from the weatherman."

"A couple of promising freshmen with good high school records could be the answer," Jaspers continued.

Other men on the tennis roster include senior Mike Becker, junior Conrad Muehling, sophomore Ken Barr, and freshmen Palmer Clements, Dennis Daniels, Gary Olson and Gary Venzke.

Knights' first meet is with State College of Iowa on April 13.

The first home meet will be against Luther on April 20.

Cameron Wins Honor Recognized by NAIA

Cliff Cameron has added another honor to his post season awards.

Cameron was named this past week to the honorable mention list of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics All - American basketball team for 1965.

Cameron led the Knights this past season in scoring, rebounding, average points per game, field goals, and free throws.

Women Can Prove Ability In Athletics By Participation In WRA Tournaments

By MARY KROHLOW

Males aren't the only ones who can prove their athletic prowess at Wartburg. The female of the species has its chance to show off in Women's Recreation Association tournaments.

One of these female stars is freshman Joan Sill. Joan played as a forward on the Centennial I-II basketball team.

Her high school experience includes six years of playing basketball for Aplington. She was all-conference her junior year and made second team her senior year.

Why Slack Off?

When asked the reason for slacking off, Joan replied with a mischievous look in her eyes, "I found out there were boys."

Aplington's loss to Parkersburg in district play stands out as the top game in Joan's mind. She discovered that free throws can be important, as Aplington missed seven free throws and Parkersburg won by seven points.

Joan enjoys other sports, too. Telling about her football experiences she said, "I had cowboy boots so I could kick in fifth grade."

She Was In 440

Joan also participated in track in the 440-yd. relay, 220-yd. dash and the 880-yd. relay. She went to state in the latter two events.

One of Joan's remembrances from this sport was the time she was running and suddenly just crumpled to the ground. Joan couldn't give any reason for this but her roommate, freshman Jan Crile, decided that it was just plain awkwardness.

Softball, in which she plays first base, is another of Joan's favorite sports. In fact, she can frequently be seen playing catch on the sidewalks in front of Centennial Hall. Joan says that she is looking forward to the WRA softball tournaments.

Has Other Interests

Other interests besides sports keep Joan pretty busy. Her versatility can be seen in the fact that she likes to sew and iron. She even added, with a note of sarcasm, that she likes to study, too.

Joan's interest in sports probably stems from the fact that her father was a track star and her mother played softball in college. Her sister and brother are also quite athletically inclined.

Joan's friends on Centennial I are planning to surprise her with a new football on her birthday, May 17. They are trying to talk her into joining the team next fall. That's one way of proving that girls can be athletes, too.

Vice President, Dean Of Women Named In Special Regents Meeting

Dr. John O. Chellevold, currently dean of the faculty and head of the Mathematics Department, has been named vice president of Wartburg College, effective July 1, 1965. The change was announced after a special Board of Regents meeting.

Chellevold's promotion will force him to relinquish his duties as dean, but he will continue to head the Mathematics Department, according to Pres. John W. Bachman.

Search for a new dean of the faculty is under way, and Chellevold's new duties will be determined when the new dean is appointed.

In other action, the board named Miss Barbara Belk as the new dean of women, also effective July 1. Miss Belk is presently serving as assistant dean of women.

Current Dean of Women Florence Hertlein will expand her activities as director of financial aids and will also continue teaching.

Five faculty promotions will become effective Sept. 1. Three of the faculty members have been given posts as assistant professors, while two assistant professors were promoted to associate professors.

John F. Kurtt was promoted to assistant professor in the Physical Education Department, and Clifford M. Wetmore and James L. Prouty were promoted to assistant professors in the Biology Department.

Assistant Professor Margaret Garland was promoted to associate professor in the English and Journalism Departments. Promoted to associate professor in the Music Department was Assistant Professor James E. Fritschel.

Special Senior Student Killed Wed. In Car-Truck Crash Near Plainfield

A special memorial service was held in convocation Tuesday for 29 year-old Ralph Height, a senior special student who was fatally injured Wednesday morning in a car-truck accident five miles south of Plainfield on Highway 218.

Height, who had been taking courses at Wartburg on a part-time basis for the past two years, was married and lived in Mason City. He was apparently on his way to classes when the accident occurred.

A music major, Height was organist and head of the music department at St. James Lutheran Church in Mason City. He had accumulated enough credits to graduate this spring or summer, according to Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann.

The accident occurred when his car veered off the highway and then came back onto the pavement and crashed into the rear wheels on the trailer of a northbound truck.

Height suffered a crushed chest, broken leg, head injuries and lacerations. He died in the Waverly hospital about three hours after the crash.

Four Custodians Join Staff

Four new men will join the custodial staff on campus July 1, according to Walter Fredrick, business manager.

Carl Tuecke, Garnavillo, will be filling a newly - created position as Student Union custodian and campus electrician.

Karl Meinhard will take over Grossmann and North Halls, replacing retiring Fred Miller. He has been working with Surge Sales and Service in Waverly.

Taking care of the athletic plant next year will be Howard Noel, Waverly, who has currently been employed at Dale's Sports Shop. He will replace Walt Raney, night security officer and assistant custodian of the athletic plant.

Centennial complex's new custodian is Willard Fairchild, Grundy Center. Fairchild will take over retiring Carl Oetting's job and has been custodian at Grundy Center Junior High for the past few years.

YR's Name Biere 'Woman Of Year'

Sophomore Jean Biere, Anamosa, was named Woman of the Year at the 1965 Iowa College Young Republican State Convention in March.

Miss Biere was honored and given a trophy in recognition of her leadership in Wartburg's YR Club. She was also appointed state communications chairman for the coming year.

Wartburg's 12 delegates participated in the legislative, banquet and voting activities of the convention. Resolutions and the platform adopted by the convention included enforcement of civil rights legislation and passage of the new voting rights bill.

National president of the American Medical Association, Dr. Donavan Ward, Dubuque, was the main speaker. State GOP Chairman Bob Ray, Des Moines, and State Chairman Ron Runge, Sioux City, also spoke.

Russ Woodrick, State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls, was elected state chairman for next year. Iowa is divided into four districts, Wartburg being in region two. Mark Moore, Loras College, Dubuque, was chosen by the group to be chairman of this region.

Treasurer

The student body treasurer has nothing to do but spend money. Sound inviting? He doesn't have to worry about any money-making events because the treasury is automatically allotted about $1600 per year. Therefore he is not concerned about income because it comes as a windfall from us in the activity fees we pay.

On the other hand, the treasurer is completely concerned with the out-go of funds from the treasury. The Student Senate legislates much of the spending and must approve all expenditures. There may be only a few large projects during the year, something like the purchase last year of a desk and filing cabinet for the S. B. President's office. The piano in the Union also came from student government.

There will be numerous small items such as telephone bills and flowers. These small bills sometimes take a good deal of chasing down to determine if they actually are to be paid out of government funds. They also make a lot of work in record keeping which is done in the treasurer's office in Luther Hall. Most of the bills come directly to that office. The Student Body Treasurer then must approve payment of each one. Some requisitions require the signatures of the S. B. President, of the S. B. Treasurer and of Dean Oppermann.

Interdepartmental transfers make up a large part of the transactions. This is the interaction between the student body treasury and the treasuries of other organizations.

Next year as an improvement I plan to put out a treasurer's report every month so as to inform you of where your money is being spent.

In conclusion, if I am to serve you in this capacity, I need your vote. Vote for NORMAN AUGST for Student Body Treasurer.

Fun At 'Dry' Run

Just before spring break, when water filled the Dry Run behind the tennis courts and chunks of ice were floating away, these four daring men decided it was time for a swim. Tillmanns Heads FLES Committee

Dr. Walter Tillmanns, Modern Languages Department, has been appointed chairman for the Committee of the American Association of Teachers of German of the national committee of Foreign Languages in Elementary Schools.

This committee, which is about five years old, came about due to a trend in the development of long sequence teaching of foreign languages in elementary schools started in 1955.

In Iowa 3 to 4 years of a foreign language is recommended, but in some other states such as California, a program which starts on the elementary level is suggested. In Waverly FLES is active in the St. Paul School, where German is being taught.

Tillmanns, who has belonged to the Committee since early in 1964, will be chairman for two years.

According to Tillmanns, major problem of FLES is to make teachers more fluent in foreign languages so that they can use the oral approach in teaching them to students on the elementary level.

Federal Service Tests To Be Given April 15

Federal Service Entrance Examinations will be given for the last time this year in May. Deadline for applications is April 15.
